I'm Damilare. I created Not Your Typical as a way to house my research and ideas spanning multiple fields. In lieu of the 20's I use my Genius to take on projects and consult with other academics and business starters of the millennial generation.

An Artist first, I formally trained in Computer Animation for cinema; Industrial design for tech discovering everything is tech I study materials from fabrics to plastics & metals. That education prepped me for all the projects I take on today where I revise the information & break it down into bitesize chunks for anyone that will find it useful.

These studies and blogs have introduced me to Mathematicians, Psychologists, Architects, Mechanical Engineers and Material Engineers where I've consulted on numerous dissertation and thesis proposals to visualise the most creative body of work and engage in robust ideas.

Why SickleCell Companion ?

I started talking about Sickle Cell out of necessity, I was mistreated in the hospital system while I was suffering through Months of pain During Autumn Winter 18/19; I turned to my psychologist and she told me she was unable to do any thing and told me 'what can one person do'. Leaving me with no one to turn to I was filled with energy enough to make me write a book on my trauma in order to deal with some of the stress and pain I suffered.

After sharing some of my writing with friends and professionals I've been prompted to share my information and first hand experience to hopefully do some good for the people who are going through Depression, PTSD, Traumatic Experiences, Anxiety & Grief.

I created Sickle Cell Companion to educate the uniformed and put out information everyone should know as well as A&E/ER Nurses and Doctors should know when faced with someone who has Sickle Cell.
